The St. Charles. Cincinnati is not behind other cities of the first class in the possession of hotels, restaurants and dining-halls. In fact, the Queen City has an excellent reputation in this regard; a reputation which will be considerably enhanced when it is more generally known that a new restaurant for ladies and gentle-men—the latest and the best—is now open at 112 and 114 West Fourth street, open at 112 and 114 West Fourth street, a location which certainly is all that can be desired. Charles Selves, the genial proprietor of this model "St. Charles," has already an enviable record as a public benefactor in this line, a record established by years of devotion to the business on Third street, which fact is a sufficient guarantee of the success of the new enterprise.

The Grand Orchestra Concer-One of the largest and most fashion able of Cincinnati audiences assembled at Pike's Hall last evening to participate in the great musical event of the season, the first concert of the Grand Orchestra An audience such as that in a city noted for her musical and æsthetical culture is a compliment rarely paid to any save the most renowned artist in the land. We doubt if an audience larger in numbers or more refined or cultivated ever assem-bled in that same hall, even when the great Nilsson was the attraction.

The orchestra has been greatly strengthened since last season by the addition of some ten or twelve new artists, all of whom all well known in musical circles. The programme was a little heavy and one very difficult of execution, calling for the greatest skill and a thorough acquaintance with the old masters. Its interpretation, however, was faultless, and so favorable was the impression created that our citizens will look forward with eager interest to the remaining concerts of the series.

----Amusements.

THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE. - Miss Minnie Palmer had a fair audience last evening to witness the last performance but one of Mr. Callahan's sparkling comedy, "Little Silver." The audience was, as we say, only fair, the attractions in other directions being so great; but those that were there were enthusiastic way." At a meeting of the "Fanny Fern Literary Club," of Roll Hill, held yesterday at the residence of R. J. Skinner, Esq., the following efficers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. C. G. Manning; Vice President, Mrs. C. G. Manning; Vice President, Mrs. C. G. Manning; Vice President, Mrs. C. Williams; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. E. Williams; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. E. Williams; Treasurer, Thos. Stephenson, Esq. Executive Committee—Miss Alice Roll, Mr. Isaac Roll and Mrs. M. J. Skinner.

those that were there were enthusiastic in their applause, the slinging, but more especially the dancing, of Miss Palmer, and the opportunities for this display of her powers, or rather the occasion is brought forth so ingeniously by the plot and language of the water, and a fly or insect of some kind is placed on the top. The fish swims round the stick and examines the swims round the stick a the play, that, unlike most pieces of the kind, it runs with a smoothness that is surprising. Miss Palmer, as we have said before, as the heroine of the dasby, sparkling "Little Silver," was excellent, and was excellently supported by the stock, among whom Messrs. Southard and Vance were prominent. "Satan in Paris" will be given to night, and "Little Silver" for the last time at to-morrow's matinee.

Wood's THEATER .- This house was Wood's Theater.—This house was comfortably filled last evening, Miss May Howard appearing as "Mercy Merrick" in the "New Magdalen." The play was well mounted, and the cast in some instances extraordinarily good. We would cite, for example, "The Servant" of Mr. Fuller and "Surgeon Weitzell" of Russel Soggs. Miss Howard, it is needless to say, was excellent as the heroise. The same programme for tonight and at the mathee to-morrow.

ROBINSON'S OPERA-HOUSE,-Mr. G. A. Stevens and the Daniel Boone Combintion still continue the attraction at this

THE NATIONAL.-This house was well attended last evening, a most entertaining programme being offered. The great feature of the evening was Chas. Foster's drama, "Saved from the Fire."

"Pil give $10 to have that train stopped?" exclaimed Major D. A. Carpenter yesterday to Mr. J. B. Hoxsie, Master of Transportation of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. The eastward-bound passenger train had pulled out of the depot, and was rattling through the yard, the bell ringing merrily. Major Carpenter stood within the depot, and Mr. Hoxsie was watching the fast receding train. The request was sufficient for Mr. Hoxsie to act upon, although ignorant of the rea. act upon, although ignorant of the rea-son, and a freight engine standing near by shricked shrilly at the engineer of the passenger train, and the alarm was taken up by other engines in the yard, while the train was motioned down by every employe of the company in the vicinity, and in the thirty seconds it had come to a stop, to the wonderment of the passengers and the curiosity of

For redempttion of park bonds... .02 $3,600 the passengers and the curiosity of the engineer.

It happened in this wise: Just before the train started a man standing on the step of one of the cars had called to him a little girl with a basket of apples on her arm, and purchased a dime's worth of the fruit. He placed the apples in his pocket, and just then the train moved slowly off. Taking a ten-cent note from his vest pocket, he held it in his hand as the train moved on, the little girl following imploringly along, and finally he returned the money to his pocket and went inside the car. The little apple girl burst into tears. Just then Major Carpenter crossed through the depot on girl burst into tears. Just then Major Carpenter crossed through the depot on his way to dinner. He asked the reason of her tears, and she told him, "Pil give $10 to have that train stopped," shouted the Major, who, though a small man, physically, has a heart as big as all out of doors. The train was stopped and backed into the depot, and, with the Major's protection, the little girl indentified the fellow, who was made to give her the dime, and then to listen to an opinion about himself expressed in vigorous English language by the thor-

Then he was made to solemnly promise that he wouldn't cat another apple for twelve months and released, taking the evening freight train for his home near Strawberry

A Practical Bull.

A practical buil was recently worked out in Ireland in the case of a roung gentleman who was accused of violating the public health acts, specially by at-tending a "spelling bee" at a watering-place while barely convalescent from an place while barely convalescent from an attack of scarlet fever, and generally by exposing himself in places of public resort after receiving warning not to do so. For thus imperiting people with whom he voluntarily brought himself in contact he was summoned before the court of petty sessions, whereat he appeared in person, to the no small discomiture of a crowded assemblage, which was edified crowded assemblage, which was edified by medical testimony that the defendant was at that moment in a condition readily to transmit intection. Being con-victed and fined £2, the offender took from his infected pocket the requisite amount in possibly infected notes, which he handed to the alarmed clerk of the court, and took his departure to carry infection elsewhere. To summon a man to a public court in order to censure him for appearing in public places is, as the British Medical Journal re-marks, a somewhat ludicrous example of doing "the right thing in the wrong

[From the New York Tribune.] A WANT SUPPLIED.

The American mind is active. It has given us books of fiction for the senimentalist, learned books for the scholar and professional student, but FEW BOOKS FOR THE FEOFLE. A book for the people must relate to a subject of universal interest. Such a subject is the physical man, and such a book "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," a copy of which has been recently laid on our table. The high professional attainments of its author—Dr. R. V. PIERCE, of Buffalo, N. Y.—and the advantages derived by him from an extensive practice, would alone insure for his work a cordial reception. But these are not the merits for which it claims our attention. The author is a man of the people. He sympathizes with them in all their afflictions, efforts and attainments. He perceives their want—a knowledge of themselves—and believing that all truth should be made as universal as God's own sunlight, from his fund of learning and experience lie has produced as work in which he gives them the benefits of his labors. In it he considers man in every phase of his existence, from the moment he emerges "from a rayless atom, too diminutive for the sight, until he gradually evolves to the maturity of those Conscious Powers, the exercise of which furnishes subjective evidence of our immortality." Proceeding upon the theory that every fact of mind has a physical an eccelent, he has given an admirable treatse of Cerebrai Physical and a social welfare, The Lagrence that the extension of the facts thus established upon individual and social welfare, The Lagrence that the extendished upon individual and social welfare, The author believes with Spencer.
